KENWORTH C500

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

The durable C500 now boasts greater performance and functionality than ever, featuring increased cab options, a larger cooling module, and two new hoods. The Kenworth C500 is custom-built from the ground up to meet your specific requirements without compromise. The new C500 thrives where other trucks fear to tread, with surprising agility and reliability.

Oil Field Truck

Depending upon the configuration, the Kenworth C500 twin steers and C500s are equipped with 500- to 600-hp Cummins engines. Many feature planetary drives, which gives added gear reduction on the wheel ends to reduce stress on the differentials and drivelines.

Mining Application Truck

Today, challenges still exist, especially in the vocational market, where Kenworth offers the C500 trucks. If customers can make more money using Kenworth product, then they're ahead of the curve.

Logging/Lumber Industry

According to Kenworth's early archives, "Kenworth engineers had earned a reputation for solving problems in the field, often driving trucks or inspecting them in the middle of a muddy road for signs of failure.

Tow Truck

The C500 is versatile with more cab options to fit your specific application. It comes available with the standard day cab, the 42" Flat-Top sleeper, and now features the extended day cab, and the 38" AeroCab FlatTop Sleeper.

Construction Truck

Kenworth's vocational line-up is designed for durability, low operating cost and excellent performance in challenging construction applications. Kenworth customers can count on Kenworth trucks to get the job done to meet your specific needs.
